Making Farming Safer for Senior Producers

In Canada, the face of farming is changing. There are more farmers over the age of 70 than under the age of 35. The reality is, older farmers are farming more acres and farming well into their golden years.

Senior farmers are vital to Canadian agriculture. Older farmers offer wisdom, knowledge, and experience. But older farmers are also at risk for injury.

Take the time to evaluate your body, your mind, and your farm. Take breaks, ask for help, and consider slowing down. Be a part of the AgSafe Family. After all, staying safe will help protect you, your family, and your legacy.

This Canadian Agricultural Safety Week, we are celebrating the AgSafe Family. For more information on keeping your family safe, visit agsafetyweek.ca.
